ASIAN/PACIFIC ISLAND NURSING JOURNAL

Special Issue:
(Mental Health Issues in API Community)

Guest Editor: Mijung Park, PhD MPH RN
Co-Editor: Jillian Inouye, PhD, FAAN
Student Editor: Naomi Chan, RN

This special issue will feature articles related to mental health issues among Asian Pacific Islander communities. We welcome manuscripts from researchers, practitioners, educators, and policy makers from all countries who are interested in disseminating new nursing knowledge and practices for Asian and Pacific Islanders.

Original and empirical studies using qualitative, quantitative, or mixed-methods approaches are welcome. We also welcome systematic reviews and meta-analyses. For this special issue, we are particularly interested in the following topics:

- Epidemiology
- Cross-cultural or transnational issues
- Interventions tailored for API communities
- Special considerations in designing and implementing research, education, practice and policy programs for API communities
- Other related topics

Asian/Pacific Island Nursing Journal is the only journal focused specifically on health and health care of and for Asian Pacific Islander community. This journal publishes peer-reviewed articles that include, but are not limited to:

- Methods, interventions, instrumentation, and educational techniques that are unique to Asian Pacific Islanders.
- Theoretical foundations that increase understanding of the unique response to changes in health and illness in Asian Pacific Islanders.
- Bio psychosocial, spiritual, and ecological impacts on practice, education, and research.
- Policy issues as a result of rigorous research outcomes.
